

One day at home I was sitting in my balcony and it was very warm. I was thirsty so I was thinking to drink juice and I didn't have any. So I was thinking to go to the mall but I realised it was easter so the mall was closed. Then I went to the kitchen and saw only ONE thing. I had nothing else in my kitchen or pantry so I was thinking to use the blender so I plugged its cord and I cut the mango and put it in then I started it and then I realised I am getting my juice and this all is happening because of electricity so I said thank you electricity you are my hero!
